ABOUT THE INVENTOR

NOXO was invented by Dr. V. Ruth Pinney, a director of Adoodle, Inc. and a special consultant for NOXO who is focusing on olfactory perception altering technologies. She directs the development of new and advanced products for the company, which may have a material effect on human biological functions and neurological systems responses.

Dr. Pinney is a retired Commander of the US Naval Reserves. She served in Naval Control of Shipping and was assigned to mobilization sites in Chile, Diego Garcia British Territories and the Republic of South Korea. She also served in the Office of Naval Research (ONR) as the science advisor for Eastern Europe and as an Environmental Health Officer.

NOXO

The Product

NOXO is a proprietary gel formulation consisting of 14 special unique ingredients, including important essential oils. When applied topically under the nostrils, NOXO blocks the nauseating effects of offensive and unpleasant odors.

NOXO comes in the form of a small packet containing the active compounds in a passive petrolatum carrier. It is specifically designed for topical application on the upper lip. When used it will alter the brain's response to offensive and noxious odors. It brings relief, even to those working with the strongest of malodors.

Control at the Point of Contact

NOXO'S innovation is to control olfactory perception. Where other products attempt to control the source of the odor, NOXO targets the point of contact. NOXO products radically diminish the effects of repellent odors without diminishing users' ability to perceive hazardous or pleasant smells.

The result is an increased ability to concentrate on the task at hand and improved overall performance for personnel in situations of high stress caused by nauseating odors.

Extensive research and a deep understanding of olfactory perception altering technologies lie behind each NOXO innovation.

NOXO products are based on selectively affecting specific olfactory receptors, thereby altering perception of the odor.

NOXO at Work

NOXO gel eliminates the effects of noxious odors. Based on olfactory perception altering technology, NOXO blocks the distracting affects of offensive odors of decay, feces, harsh chemicals, burning flesh, operating room odors, garbage, smelly diapers and putrefaction.

Recent research shows that nauseating odors severely affect the concentration, capabilities and overall functioning of those exposed to them. This is a serious consideration for those at risk of exposure, such as emergency personnel, the medical services, military personnel, and aid and rescue workers.

These people are often forced to operate surrounded by powerful protein-based odors such as burnt or decomposing flesh, infected wounds, vomit and bodily fluids. In the long term, repeated exposure can lead to loss of appetite, depression, loss of the ability to smell, and even Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD).

NOXO has solutions for coping with nauseating, offensive and unpleasant odors. There is a growing awareness throughout the world of the need to protect first responders. At the same time, research into the virtually-unexplored field of olfactory perception is pointing at the surprising power of the sense of smell. Understanding this field and possible applications of olfactory perception altering technologies, NOXO is set to lead a potentially expansive market, including homeland security, government agencies, military, first responders, healthcare and emergency services, as well as the private market.
